THE 2012 THEME

This year's theme is "After God's Own Heart." We are focusing on having a heart like God. Therefore, we will be studying the psalms of David who was a man after God's own heart (I Samuel 13:13-14, Acts 13:22).

The psalms are often identified as different types of poetry (i.e. Mizmor, Shir, etc.). Some psalms are grouped by content, others by style. There are actually 150 Psalms. We see them in our English Bible as one book but they are actually a set of five books, like the Pentateuch:

Book One: The Genesis Book = Concerning Man (Psalms 1-41)

Book Two: The Exodus Book = Concerning Israel (Psalms 42-72)

Book Three: The Leviticus Book = Concerning Worship (Psalms 73-89)

Book Four: The Numbers Book = Concerning The Nations & The Earth (Psalms 90-106)

Book Five: The Deuteronomy Book = Concerning the Word of God (Psalms 107-150)

You should know that English poems often rhyme with similar sounds making them difficult to translate into other languages. However, in Hebrew poetry ideas are compared and contrasted to create what are considered to be "thought rhymes." These translate well into other languages, however, one should consider the varying styles to understand the image or message intended by the author. Consider the different types of parallelism:

- (1) Synonymous - the thought of the first line is repeated - Psalms 2:4, 7:16
- (2) Antithetic - the thought of the first line is paralleled to a contrasting idea - Psalms 1:6, 115:5-7
- (3) Synthetic - the thought in the first line leads to the second line through cause and effect
- Psalm 23:1, 119:11
- (4) Progressive - a set of lines given through a progressive series - Psalms 1:1
- (5) Introverted - parallelism moves inward to outward - Psalms 51:3, 91:14
- (6) Emblematic - figurative expressions and images are used to paint images - Psalms 23:1-4, 57:1
- (7) Acrostic - each new line starts with a different letter of the alphabet, in this case it is Hebrew - Psalms 9, 10, 25, 34, 37, 111, 112, 119, 145
- (8) Cadence/Responsive Readings - the lines are designed so that individuals or group of people could repeat them to the speaker - Psalms 136

The psalms were written by several authors and were used for both a devotional nature and for worship. Some of the anonymous psalms are believed to have been written by David (i.e. Psalm 2 according to Acts 4:25, Psalm 95 according to Hebrews 4:7, etc.), some may have been penned by Ezra, or some of the other authors listed below:

73 = David - Psalms 3-9, 11-32, 34- 41, 51-66, 68-70, 86, 101, 103, 108-110, 122, 124, 131, 138-145

50 = Anonymous - Psalms 1, 2, 10, 33, 43, 66-67, 71, 91-94, 96-100, 102, 104-107, 111-121, 123, 125-126, 128-130, 132, 134-137, 146-150

12 = Asaph - Psalms 50, 73-83

10 = Korah - Psalms 42, 44-49, 84-85, 87-88

2 = Solomon - Psalms 72, 127

1 = Heman - Psalm 88

1 = Ethan - Psalms 89

1 = Moses - Psalms 90

Why did we choose this theme and to study the Psalms of David this year? The New Testament commands us to sing psalms (Ephesians 5:19). There are also many psalms quoted in the New Testament. However, the simple reason is that we all want to have a heart like God. If David is one attributed with having "God's own heart" then surely we can learn from him.
